

STUDENT ADVOCACY

Bias Education and Response Team

2017-2018 Annual Report

The Bias Education and Response Team (BERT) is responsible for applying the university's response protocol to bias incidents, which provides a process to comprehensively, collaboratively, and consistently address bias incidents that impact Auburn University students, faculty, and staff. As part of its work, the BERT produces a report annually to summarize bias incident data over time.

During the 2017-2018 academic year, 22 unique bias-related incidents were reported to BERT. The tables and charts represent a general overview of the nature of the bias-related incidents that were reported from August 1, 2017 - to July 31, 2018. Data from previous academic years is provided to provide a comparison and to shows trends in behavior.

Notable trends for 2017-2018 include:

- 83% of the bias-related incidents were reported to have occurred on campus.
- Verbal behavior represents 55% of all incidents with 48% of incidents involving racial and ethnic bias.
- While reporting trends show a decrease in reports for the 2017-2018 academic year, students represent 80% of alleged individuals and 100% of the targets of bias-related incidents.

2017-2018 Annual Report

How many bias-related reports were submitted?

	2016-2017	2017-2018
Unique Reports	52	22
Total Reports	52	23
Unique Individuals	64	52
Total Individuals Involved	104	55

* Unique incidents may have resulted in more than one report submitted.

Who submitted the bias-related report?

	2016-2017	2017-2018
Staff	15	9
Student	24	8
Faculty	8	4
Other	5	1
Total	52	22

Who is alleged to have caused the bias-related incident?

	2016-2017	2017-2018
Student	12	10
Unknown	24	2
Other	1	1
Faculty	0	0
Staff	0	0
Total	37	13

*Multiple people could have caused each report.

Who was the target of the bias-related incident?

	2016-2017	2017-2018
Student	11	10
Faculty	0	0
Staff	0	0
Other	1	0
Unknown	1	0
Total	13	10

What types of bias-related behaviors were reported?

	2016-2017	2017-2018
Verbal Behavior	14	12
Online Behavior	5	3
Written Behavior	8	3
Symbol/Display	5	2
Defacement/ Damage to Property	8	1
Physical Behavior	3	1
Phone/Text Behavior	0	0
Total	43	22

Multiple behaviors could be present in each report*

What types of bias were reported?

	2016-2017	2017-2018
Race	30	12
National Origin/ Immigration Status	14	6
Sex	2	2
Sexual Orientation	4	2
Ethnicity	6	1
Gender Identity/Expression	5	1
Other	4	1
Disability	0	1
Religion	13	1
Gender	2	0
Age	0	0
Genetic Information	0	0
Veteran Status	0	0
Total	80	27

Multiple types of bias could be present in each report.*

Where did the bias-related incident occur?

	2016-2017	2017-2018
On-campus	40	19
Online	9	3
Off-campus	3	1
Unknown/Other	0	0
Total	52	23

BERT Data Reporting

The BERT is not an investigatory body and does not have the authority to recommend or impose any discipline on students, faculty, or staff. When a reported incident contains information indicating a possible violation of university policy, the BERT works with the Office of Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity, the Department of Campus Safety and Security, and Student Conduct to assess if any university policies have been violated and make the appropriate referrals.

The BERT Team provides opportunities for all reporters to meet with a BERT team member and explore resources and support available throughout the university. Sometimes individuals report bias behavior or experiences and request no further action be taken by the BERT. An anonymous report that describes bias behavior that occurred on campus would be one example of a concern report. In this instance, a referral is made to the BERT and logged as a concern report for use in record keeping and reporting via annual reports.

Information collected by BERT is shared with the community as a part of reporting on the campus climate surrounding bias incidents as well as to inform the campus community of the resources available. This information could also be used to create support resources and awareness programs that will continue to support the mission and vision of Auburn University.